

Pictures from Experiencing the Divine

A compilation of pictures from our Edwards Church community

The Mill River in winter
-Danny Shanahan

Joy - Sparking God's Vision - a Surprise
-Sarah Briggs

Bouquet on the front porch of Sarah Briggs and Scott Stones' home

Lilies that Blossomed on a Granddaughter's Birthday
- Ann Parker

Sand, Water, and Play: My 18 Month Old Great Nephew
-Deb Moore

The Cheung Family on a Walk in Their Neighborhood
-Floyd Cheung

Life Renews Persistently

-Michael McSherry

The Future is Hopeful

-Mark Dion

She's Got the Whole World in her Hand

-Michael McSherry

Creating the World You Want

-Michael McSherry

Carl and Lynda's annual family 4th of July in Wellfleet at our son Brett and our daughter in-law Liz's beach house. We are enjoying Wellfleet's famous oysters and being together.

-Carl & Lynda Erickson

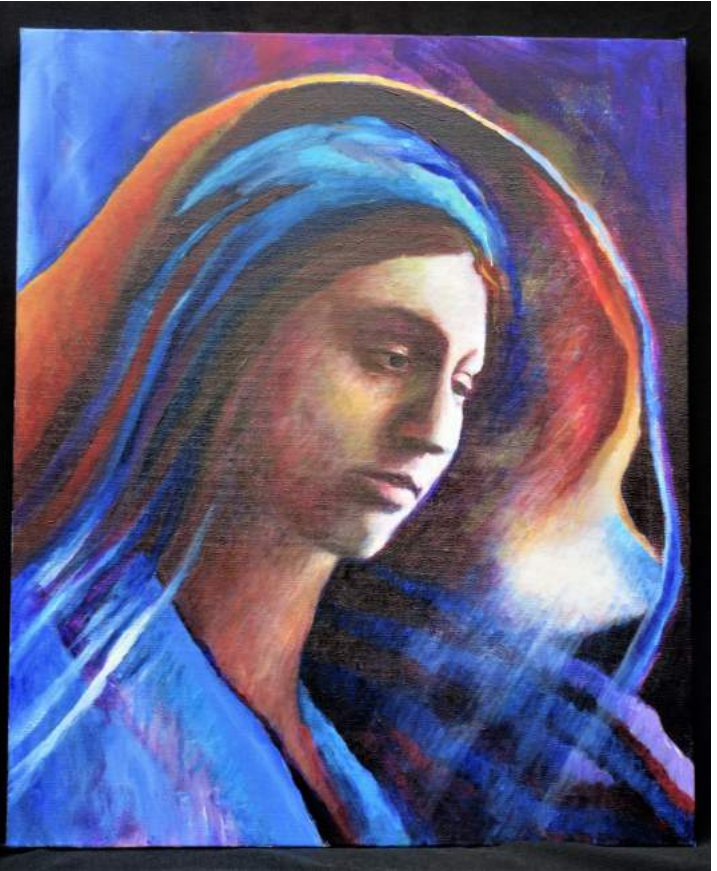

This photo has been rotated vertical so it looks like a heart. Taken standing in Upper Antelope Canyon in Arizona with my camera pointing up towards a shaft of light

-Linda Vincent

Photo taken on Navajo land

Le Visit

- Kathy Arcotta

When I am in the process of creating, whether with clay, paint or words, I do it with a Partner: The Divine Energy within me. We take a journey together, speaking to each other along the way. We have a dialogue. I am sure there are words for this and maybe a definition or two. I call it a dialogue with my Inner Spirit/Soul. At some point "WE" reach a conclusion and determine that the "Image" what ever it may be, is "Right" and we end the conversation. What I have found is that days, weeks, or even years later, I will see something in what I created that says to me: "This is what the (Inner Spirit/Divine Spirit) was really trying to tell me! And I will respond with "Ahh" or "Hmm" or "Wow" and it is then that I realize that I was in conversation with "Something" greater than my physical mortal self and that this is the Joy and Wonder of participating in the Creative Process for me. It is so wonderful and beautiful. I have no control over that "the viewer" may see in what I have created but hopefully the Viewer will receiver some message that gives them something to think about, recall a memory, experience an emotion or even create an "Ahh" moment!

The Bee, The Butterfly, The Flower: Oh the Beauty of Community

-Deb Moore

Among the Trees

-Deb Moore

Taken at Whiting Reservoir in Holyoke

*It Makes Crystal Clear
What I Need to Remember*

-Melissa Mattison

Taken at the Cape this summer

Near Sunset at Low Tide with High Humidity Creating the Look of Mist

-Cynthia Stanton

July 2012 at Wingarsheek Beach, Gloucester

A Surprise Visit and Instant Smile

-Janet Tucker

Buzz Pollination

-Ann Parker

By my pet bee who never minds me photographing him

Cathedral in the Woods

-Carla Wirzburger